Parents: It’s time to talk! They really do want to know what you think.

Tip #46

Sometimes talking is really about listening.

www.mnchlamydiapartnership.org/
I am not nervous
Parents: It’s time to talk!
They really do want to know what you think.

Tip #17

Speak their language.
Send a text message.

www.mnchlamydiapartnership.org/
so what did she say?

nothing
Parents: It’s time to talk! They really do want to know what you think.

Tip #61

You don’t always have to talk about sex to talk about sex.
does he love me?
should I kiss her?
Parents: It’s time to talk!
They really do want to know what you think.

Tip #3

It’s not about the talk, it’s about talking. And listening. Consistently.
does she love me?
Parents: It’s time to talk! They really do want to know what you think.

Tip #11

Don’t lecture. Ask non-judgmental questions, then listen.

www.mnchlamydiapartnership.org/
Pat said Isaac said Chris likes you!
Parents: It’s time to talk!
They really do want to know what you think.

Tip #21

True love? Dating? Dances?
Sharing your own experiences makes you old – and interesting!

www.mnchlamydiapartnership.org/
Prom?

Never.
Parents: It’s time to talk! They really do want to know what you think.

Tip #46

Adolescence is ALL about change. What do your teens need to hear? It’s normal!!
pretty enough?
more lipstick for sure
Parents: It’s time to talk!
They really do want to know what you think.

Tip #9

Frustrated by technology? Use it as a teachable moment – share your opinion and listen.

www.mnchlamydiapartnership.org/
promise I won't post it Parents: It’s time to talk! They really do want to know what you think.

Tip #33
Your view of risky may not be theirs! Talk through specific scenarios—from both perspectives.

www.mnchlamydiapartnership.org/
so romantic!
just friends?